Debaters Propose That United States Cancel War Debts

H. Lande, Law '33 And M. Doig, Law '35, Represent McGill Tonight

OPPOSE VERMONT

Bigelow And McCuir To Speak For American University

With the eyes of the world on Washington this week, as the outcome of the meeting between President-elect Roosevelt and President Hoover is anxiously awaited on the problem of war debts, McGill, represented by Harold Lande, Law 3, and Melbourne Doig, Law 1, will encounter the University of Vermont tonight in an international debate upon the question. The debate will take place in the Union at 8:15 and as is usual at all the functions of the Debating Union, will be open to the public free.

The University of Vermont will be represented by J. E. Bigelow and R. E. McCuir, both well-known on their campus and who successfully toured the south and east last spring, without meeting defeat. The affirmative of the subject, "Resolved that the United States cancel its war debts," will be upheld by McGill and the Green Mountaineers will insist on the status quo. At the conclusion of the formal speeches, the meeting will assume the form of a mock parliament, in which many have signified the intention of participating.

Later Speakers

Among those who will join in the discussion are, Max Ford, Wilson Becket, Henry Schafhausen, A. H. Zaitlin, Herbert Tees, Peacock, Barlow, Donald Black, Clarence Gross and others. The discussion which the Mock Parliament affords is open to everyone, the only consideration being that of time. The debate will not continue beyond 10:30.

The judges will be Judge Surveyer, Greville S. Tyndale and Professor C. E. Fryer, Edmund Collard, president of the Debating Union will occupy the position of speaker. The president pointed out yesterday that the topic is very timely, in fact the whole

Catholic Charities Urge Co-Operation

Higher Objective Is Planned For This Year

Campaigning for the Catholic Federated Charities began this week at McGill. Representatives from the various classes are making a personal canvass of the Catholic students and if each one contributes according to his means, the campaign committee hopes, with this subsidiary aid, to raise their objective of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars.

It is unnecessary to stress the fact that the great number of unemployed necessitates increased donations to the charities, and so donations from any other students will be greatly appreciated. The list of canvassers are as follows:

R.V.C.—Shirley Nowlan, Margaret Doran, Elizabeth Power, LeVilo Stewart.

Law—Timothy Slattery, Kenneth McNamee, Brendan O'Connor, George Broderick.

Medicine—Fred Carpenter, Bob. Quinn.

Engineering—Desmond Shortall.

Commerce—Andre Leroux.

Arts—Charles Wayland, Arthur Styles, Bill Carter, Tom Kierans.

Untidy Attacked

Strenuous Campaign Launched at Bryn Mawr College

Philadelphia, Nov. 22. — The editorial of the newspaper, Bryn Mawr College News, severely attacked untidiness among their lady students today. As a result, a strenuous campaign at tidiness commenced at Bryn Mawr College. If some of their girls were late to lectures it was probably due to the time spent in combing hair, polishing finger nails, or doing other ordinarily magnificent detail of personal appearance.

Some of the points emphasised were: their clothing would bring shame to a Belgian refugee; their hair was frowsy and unkept; their finger nails were in perpetual mourning; their clothes disported marks of untidiness; and in conclusion, their table manners were TERRIBLE.

Arts Juniors Hold Mock Parliament At Four Tomorrow

"THAT McGill students should be granted reduced fares on all Montreal Tramway Vehicles," is the purport of the new Bill to be introduced by the government of Arts '34 tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock, during the opening session of Parliament in Room 64 of the Arts Building.

The Rt. Hon. Morton W. Bloomfield, of the Capitalistic Communists, will lead the Government forces, while the Hon. Malcolm Ransom, leader of the United Farmers will oppose them in this measure. The method that will be followed is that each member will seat himself on either side of the House, and may change his seat as the fancy seizes him. At the end of the discussion a vote will be taken. The chief value of the Mock Parliament is the advantage it gives for repartee.

Any in the class who are interested in class debates are urged to be present and voice their opinions.

Toronto Debaters Will Argue Against Movie Censorhip

FRIDAY WEEK sees the opening inter-university debate of the Delta Sigma Society. The affirmative of the subject "That this House approves some form of Government censorship of motion pictures" will be taken by Alice Johannsen and Isobel Dawson. The negative will be taken by a team from Toronto.

The debate will take place in the Convocation Hall of R. V. C. at eight-thirty. On the same day a negative team composed of Marjorie Gowans and Jessie McCleod will debate on the same subject in Hamilton against McMaster University.

The other University in the Debating League is Queen's at Kingston. The trophy presented by Miss Winnifred Berkitt, a graduate of McGill, was won last year by the McGill team.

The Society is planning to hold a return debate sometime in February with the University of Vermont which is opposing the McGill Debating Union tonight.

Biological Uses Of X-Ray Described At Meeting Of Society

Walter Johnston Read Paper Before Biological Club Yesterday

INFLUENCE VARIED

Germination And Mutation Of Cells Affected by Action of Rays

Yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, the Biological Society held its regular fortnightly meeting in the Lecture Theatre of the Biological Building. The principle item on the agenda was the reading of a paper on "The Biological Application of the X-Ray," by Walter Johnston.

Johnston prefaced his remarks with an explanation of the fundamental workings of the X-ray. He then went on to relate how scientists, on noticing the effects — sore eyes, sometimes severe burns, or loss of hair — that X-Rays produced on those closely associated with it for any length of time, began to speculate as to what would be the biological effects of its direct application to living cells or tissue.

Experiments Tried

Accordingly a number of experiments were carried out with this end in view. Radish seeds, water fleas and their eggs, embyro chickens, and fruit flies are typical examples of the subjects experimented upon. It was found that the rate of germination of a number of these cells was affected by X-Rays, and also by Radium emanations. These radiations, it was discovered, also have a tendency to upset the equilibrium that exists in nature between the consumption and production of carbon-dioxide and oxygen, in the case of certain cells. The resistance of an individual cell to these rays, however, is dependent upon the activity of the cell itself, and this varies considerably.

The speaker pointed out that in the experiments performed on the fruit flies, the X-Rays were found to considerably affect mutations, and that changes in radiations have different effects on different physiological processes. Research work along these lines, in the future, will no doubt result in

Arts '33 Debaters Paired In Teams For Class Contest

THE drawing of teams for the Arts '33 debating contest was made yesterday and debates will start as soon as the opponents have got in touch with each other and arranged subjects, in order that the winners may be determined in time to take part in the inter-class competition for the Faculty championship.

The drawing resulted in the following debates being arranged: Place and Owen versus Marshall and Brenhouse, Cohen and Anglin versus Walsh and Calder, Hilliard and Wayland versus Tees and Schafhausen, and Mowat and Carter versus Caplan and Lavut.

In 1931 the winners of the class championship were Wayland and Schafhausen and last year Mowat and Hamilton won, but as the interclass championship has not been held for several years they were unable to seek further honors.

The tournament is being run by Herbert Tees this year, and this is the first time that partners have been drawn for instead of being selected.

Honor Students To View Methods For Economic Recovery

THE second meeting of the year of the Political Economy Club will be held tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock in the smoking room of the Arts Building. The topic of the speeches is "The Way to Economic Recovery with particular reference to the Regulated State," and will be discussed by Allison Walsh and Sam Brenhouse, both fourth year honor students.

Walsh, who will speak first, will deal briefly with the causes of the present depression and of the various remedial proposals. Brenhouse will consider the various methods of state regulation of production, consumption, distribution and allied topics. This subject is of paramount practical importance in view of the present economic depression.

Second year students in economics are especially requested to attend, as are all honor students. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments will be served and a general discussion will follow. The meeting will be attended by members of the Political Economy Staff.

Films Declared To Be Of Educational Value For Children

Farrell And Macintyre Defeat Paterson And Hawes In Diocesan Debate

"That the present act in this province against the admission of children to motion picture houses is in the best interests of education," was disproved last night in a debate held at the Diocesan College with Percy Patterson and Albert Hawes, upholding the affirmative side, opposing P. R. M. Farrell and Kenneth M. C. Macintyre, the winners. The individual speaker adjudged the best of the evening was P. R. Farrell and he is now eligible to compete in the final debates to be held early next year for the Lachlan Gibb Cup.

At the outset the first speaker of the affirmative, Percy Patterson, stated that present day motion pictures are not educational in that they do not cultivate the various physical, intellectual and moral faculties of children. Comedy, romance and melodrama comprise the great bulk of present day films and as they invariably appeal to the lower instincts of children, the Quebec Government did right in not countenancing such pictures. The tendency of pictures nowadays to discuss suicides, murders and adulteries suggest such ideas to the immature minds of children from which the actuality is not far off.

Travelogues Educational

The speaker emphasized the point that the act does not specifically bar children under sixteen from all movies; the act does not apply to free shows such as travelogues given in colleges, convents, and other educational institutions. There they are

Returns Reported Small As S.C.M. Campaign Progresses

Total to Date of $230 Represents 20 Per Cent. of Objective

Slow progress was reported in the S.C.M. Annual Financial Campaign at the luncheon for campaign collectors held at noon yesterday. The drive which started on Monday last and will continue until the end of the week among the students and staff of all faculties has reached a total of $230.15, slightly more than 20 per cent of the objective expected from the campus. Bill Bourne, Campaign Leader, announced that Tuesday's returns were disappointingly low, the increase over the previous day being $24.15 and $33.00 from the Staff and students respectively.

To date the student body has contributed twice as much as the Staff of the University, and have netted 30 per cent of their objective. The total expected from McGill is $1 000 which is two-thirds the amount asked for last year and thus shows a real economy in the administration of the Movement.

All collectors are expected to make returns at lunch today and to report progress in general. Those in charge have issued a strenuous appeal both to the student body to give generously and also to the collectors to redouble their efforts.

Russians Experience Educational Revolt

Professor Gordon Outlines New Enthusiasm in Soviet Culture

"This is not the first time that the Western world has received a certain amount of shock from a movement which started in the East." With these words, Professor King Gordon indicated last night to the St. James Literary Society the upheaval which is going on in Russia today, not only politically and economically but also along educational and artistic grounds.

The Russian school system is definitely formed with the view to moulding the youth of the country to become good citizens of a Soviet system. Especially in view of the previous illiteracy, education in Russia is on a high plane. Unique among all military institutions the Red army

Operatic Production To Be Staged Soon

Rehearsals Advance Rapidly For Performance of 'Yeoman of the Guard'

PRICES REASONABLE

Students Tickets $0.85 As Compared to General Charge of $1.25

Rehearsals are now practically completed for Gilbert and Sullivan's "Yeomen of the Guard" to be produced by the McGill Choral and Operatic Society on December 13 to Doecember 15th inclusive. The sale of tickets is well under way, and is steadily increasing as the above date draws nearer. They may be purchased from the members of the Society, and can be exchanged for the theatre tickets after the 29th of this month at the Union Box Office.

As in the case of all campus productions, students will be admitted at special rates. The cost of a ticket for the general public is $1.25, while a student may obtain the same ticket for 85 cents. As an incentive to selling more tickets, the person who makes the most sales will be allowed to see the performance free of charge. Following the final performance, it was announced that an informal supper will be held for all who took part, for which a small admission charge will be made.

Chorus Very Large

The production is under the direction of Irvin Cooper, who is managing a cast of over one hundred students, the male chorus being the largest ever known to McGill production. The chorus and orchestra are now working together, and marked progress has been made since they first started to practice together two weeks ago.

The eight Yeomen of the play are

Class Luncheon Well Attended By Arts '34

The McGill Grill Room was the scene yesterday noon of a class dinner held by the members of Arts '34. That this affair was a succes can be attested by the fact that practically 50 members attended. Unlike previous years this dinner was not accompanied by the usual speeches by members of the executive as it was felt that that would probably spoil a successful meeting.

The success of this first social function of the year attempted by Arts '34 may be used as a criterion for future activities to be undertaken by the executive.

Freshman Informal To Be Held Dec. 9

At a meeting of the Arts Freshmen yesterday it was announced that a class dance will be held in the Union on Dec. 9th. Only members of the first year are to be sold tickets, which are one dollar per couple. It was decided that no one will be admitted unless he has a red and white ribbon in his button-hole. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the executive.

Lecture On Pirates Features Meeting

Professor Adair Speaks To Delta Sigma Society Tomorrow

Professor Adair of the History department will be the guest-speaker of the Delta Sigma Society tomorrow afternoon. He has chosen for his subject "Pirates in the Seventeenth Century." The executive expect that the topic will appeal to the romantic instinct of all co-eds, and in the hands of Professor Adair it should take on an added interest. It is stated that the speaker is talented and versatile in the art of speech making, so that members feel assured that those attending will spend an interesting and enlightening afternoon.

The meeting, which will take place on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock in R. V. C. Common Room, is the second general meeting of the season. Refreshments will be served.

The first round of the Freshie debates will take place on Friday and the upperclass debates will follow as soon as possible. The society wish to remind the co-eds that it is not too late to sign up for this activity.

Prize Prom Poster Publicly Proclaimed

Design of Tony Raymond, Eng. III, Selected From Large Number

From a large number of posters submitted to the Junior Prom Committee that of Tony Raymond, Eng. '3 has been awarded the poster prize. The winning poster of a somewhat impressionistic nature is on display at the Redpath Library Notice Board and elsewhere and informs all onlookers that this year's Junior Prom will be held at the Windsor Hotel on Thursday, December 1st.

Now that the difficult question of selecting the best poster has finally been disposed of, the committee will hold a meeting this afternoon at 5.15 in the Grill Room of the Union and a choice of orchestra may be made then or in the near future. The sale of tickets, at five dollars each, is now proceeding through the faculty representatives and is now open to all students.

Initial Performance Tonight Of English Department Play

Graduate Society's Executive Gathered

Amendments to Constitution Proposed at Meeting Last Night

FUNDS COMBINED

Accruing Interest to be Devoted to Library Purposes At McGill

The Executive Committee of the Graduate Society of McGill University met last night in the Faculty Room of the Arts Building and there discussed the business which is to occupy them during the forthcoming months. At the meeting, the type of radio broadcast that the Society has been undertaking twice weekly during the past five months and is to continue, to undertake until March was approved.

Concerning the Library Fund and Dawson Fund which both date back to the '80's, decision was made to combine them under "The Sir William Dawson Memorial Library Fund' and to set aside the investment in the name of that fund. Interest accruing from this is to be given to the University for the use of the various McGill libraries.

Amendments Proposed

In reference to proposed amendments to the constitution, it was decided to ask the members of the Society by letter ballot to authorize the three following: 1. "That the president of the Montreal Branch Society be made a member of the executive of the Main Society;" 2. "That the President of the Students' Executive Council be made a member of the Main Society;" 3. "That the Class Secretaries who do not function as such, or who do not become members of the Society, may, at the discretion of the Committee, be replaced by class councillors whom the Committee would appoint." In the above regard action

Casting For Plays Lacks Male Turnout

Tryouts for the second set of Workshop plays was held yesterday afternoon in the Players' Clubroom. The extreme dearth of male players which has applied in the casting hitherto was noticeable yesterday as most of the enthusiasm was evidenced by those of the female sex. The executive wishes to stress that no previous experience is necessary. There are still several important parts unfilled in the first play and casting for this and the other two plays will continue tomorrow.

To Speak on Modern Writings

"The Poetry of the Great War" will form the subject of Patrick Beatts' address at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Grill Room of the Union to the English Literature Society. The subject has been chosen in accordance with the expressed preference of the majority of the members for modern literature. All those present will be invited to join in the discussion, following the speech.

Freshmen to Attend Shakespeare's "Comedy Of Errors"

The first performance of "The Comedy of Errors" will take place this evening at 8.30 o'clock in Moyse Hall. This performance will be given for Freshmen exclusively, while on Thursday evening all students of McGill will be admitted. Tickets may be obtained from Bill Gentleman. On Friday and Saturday evenings, performances will be given for the parents and friends of the cast and of the classes of English 13 and 22.

The play derives its plot from the amusing intricacies arising from mistaken identities. It is interesting to note that Shakespeare at this time was in a sense experimenting with his characters, and one may trace the development of certain personalities in other plays. In this play Aegeon reminds one slightly of Antonio in the Merchant of Venice; while Adriana is easily recognized as Kate in the Taming of The Shrew.

Cast Chosen

The costumes and scenery have been provided by the classes of English 13 and 22.

The characters in order of appearance are:

Solinus, duke of Ephesus — Henry Haslitt.

Aegeon, a merchant of Syracuse—Robert Sherwood.

Library Opened For Unemployed Of City

Two Lectures Given Each Week In Strathcona Hall

A library for the unemployed was opened yesterday in Strathcona Hall. Last year, a series of lectures was started for the benefit of those who were out of work, more or less as an experiment. It was so successful that the series is being continued this year, and two lectures a week are being given instead of one. The library was established in connection with these lectures.

The books have been donated, lumber for the shelves was given free of charge, the shelves were made and installed by a man who attends the lectures, and two girls who also attend are giving their services as librarians. In short, the library is being run entirely free of cost.

Yesterday, Eric Muncaster gave a lecture on "Some Wonders of the West." The speaker for the next meeting is H. Burton, whose topic will be "Books." It is expected that the lectures will be continued all through the winter months until March or April, although the program drawn up gives the subjects only until Christmas.

An appeal is now being made for more books of a general character, including fiction, as the demand already promises to be great.

New Directory Reveals Complex Nomenclature

A riot took place on the campus this morning when a Dollar was found in the new Students' Directory. Some students were injured in the scramble, but the successful rioters now claim the depression is over. A Ransom was also found, fit for Kings, although they may have to Wait Weeks for it, but where there is a Will there is a Way.

The biblical tendencies shown by the students are very striking. There is a James, John, Jacob, Joseph, Ruth, Mary, Naomi, Peter, Paul, and they provided some Lyons for Daniel. Some Bishops and Popes share two Churches on Mt. Zion.

They let a Piper Pick a Peck of pickled—alas there are no peppers but many other things (?) are pickled and will do instead.

The low element at McGill comes to the fore by producing a Moll who goes Gunning for Gold from her Guy.

On the other hand, the common garden variety of Beatts forms a major portion of the farm produce of McGill. The Apple, Bean, and various Berries also Bloom.

Many diverse occupations are represented. There are Cooks, who flirt with Buttlers, Carters who become Cross, Gardners who Gamble, a Golfman who has many Tees, and some Porters who haven't the Price of a Pye. A Hogg lives in a House on a Hill and keeps Katz and raises Kane in Style.

We will do as Wisely as Solomon did and end this ere we become Savage. We Hale thee, Antony—but have sung in vain for Cleopatra.

The Debating Union

THE contest scheduled for this evening, when representatives from McGill meet two men from the University of Vermont in an international debate, draws the attention of the students once again upon the Debating Union. There is no need to discuss the manifold blessings that result from patronage of this indoor avocation. They are obvious and oft-repeated. What might bear reflection, however, is the considerably large sum that is spent every year upon debating, and whether or not the advantages derived thereby justify the expenditure of this sum.

The total expenses of the Debating Union Society for the past academic year amounted to four hundred and sixty dollars, plus a few odd cents. As the revenue amounted to nothing, the excess expenditure is expressed in the same figures. This amount is over forty percent. of the excess expenditure of the whole Students' Society, — a Society that bears the deficits of eight organizations, most of which are wider in scope and more important to the University than the Debating Union.

The student body itself — by its membership fee to the Students' Society — pays the expenses that are incurred by the Debating Union. For this reason, any curiosity that the students may feel about the benefits they receive from this expense can be well justified.

The advantages of debating can surely be tasted without paying for them so heavily. The class debates, the inter-class debates, and the public-speaking contests that are held here have a very definite use. But they do not demand large outlays of money. A glance at the financial report of the Debating Union Society will show that a total of three hundred and twenty-two dollars was spent on travelling.

And it is exactly here, where most money is spent, that the most useless function of the society lies. Travelling, and debating at other universities has possibly its educational benefits, but naturally they can only be experienced by very few. The students as a whole receive no return for the money they spend.

The debates with other universities that are held at McGill do not justify this expense. Their value to the listener is no greater than that of local mock parliaments, or debates among local students. When the opportunity did arise a short time ago to debate with British visitors, the topic was one that could have been equally well discussed among any four intelligent Montrealers. It is not necessary to import men to consider general and abstract questions.

There is every likelihood that the Debating Union will spend as much this year as last. Nothing will, of course, be done about it. The majority of undergraduates seldom read anything so dull as financial reports. If they should ever do so, and if they should ever stop to think about it, they would probably come to the conclusion that approximately four-hundred dollars is spent annually to little account. Then it might go ill with the travelling propensities of the college debaters.

Blind Mouths

IN connection with the instruction that is being given to professors for the purpose of improving their broadcasting delivery, it has been suggested that all public men be given courses that shall teach them how to speak. The idea is a sound one, but would be bettered by extending it further. There is a decided need of a course of instruction that shall impress upon certain public men the utter uselessness of their speaking in public at all.

The average simple soul, who wants only to be happy, has a difficult task nowadays in dodging addresses from men who are not paid to give addresses, but who assume that function to be one of their chief duties. They will speak to anyone who will pretend to listen, — camp-fire girls, socialist clubs, cultural groups, underprivileged boys, college students and Sunday schools. Among them are lawyers and politicians who have a scheme to rid the world of all its ills, ministers who know all there is to know about our economic problems, and professors who are suffering from puppy-love of Russia as a result of a few weeks spent there.

Members of each of the respective groups usually say exactly the same things —especially those of the latter, who also say them more often. It should be a simple matter to embody the various talks into one, print it, and circulate it among the people who would ordinarily have to listen to the same facts presented in the course of several speeches. One small borrowed idea is not worth a dozen lectures.

Beer, Boats AND Bicycles

The Daily's Special Correspondent at Cambridge writes us in colloquial style.

ANOTHER fellow from John's and myself rose early this morn; had a reviving shower; attended the chapel service at 8 a.m. and forthwith betook ourselves to breakfast at Clare. Four other research students were gathered there—one from Toronto 'Varsity and now at Caius, one from Trinity College, and two fellows from New Zealand — quite a nice company for a four course breakfast. Then we sat around and talked for a few hours — at least until noonday. The usual College yarns were swopped, about absent-minded examiners, about proctorial law and policy, about Polar Explorations (Priestly was with Shackleton in the Antartic) about the College boats, about the disabilities and disadvantages under which research students labour, and so on, until we had smoked innumerable (allow for exaggeration here) cigarettes.

You see — I suppose you don't, but still — the research student is in a peculiar situation here at the University. He is, as it were, a marked man; it is unwise for him to take part in many of the usual undergraduate 'frolics.' A few years ago some researchers (this word seems to be used quite frequently now, in University Regulations and so forth) fell into serious trouble by committing some dastardly offence against the College proctors (I mean the University proctors — the College does not appoint them). This lad was duly sent down; and Caius, his College, refused to have research students within their walls for two whole years. That being the situation, it is, therefore wise not to be too bold in transgression of the University laws; which laws, some seventeen hundred freshmen (myself included) promised to obey as from the date of our matriculation, November 1st, 1932. Nevertheless, one can contrive to have much enjoyment without making oneself a public nuisance.

General

THERE are several interesting Australians and New Zealanders in residence this year, but not many Canadian students. There is this fellow from Toronto — another lad from U. B.C., a geologist, and a few superior chaps in the Physics Department. I prefer the New Zealanders. One New Zealander at Clare is in his College Boat and last season he played Rugby — he is a zoologist — and yet he managed to get a little work done. Another New Zealand lad I know — also a chemist or something — is contemplating returning home via Canada and the United States, travelling by means of a Baby Austin! He has already toured Europe on a motorcycle. In fact, there are lots of interesting fellows in Cambridge — out of the six thousand five hundred odd residents.

One can usually find one's own type or level — if you want a beer crowd, you join the Boat Club — if you imagine that you are going to be, or destined to be, a famous political orator, you join the Union (not much advantage in it otherwise) — if you do amazing feats of climbing (sometimes in Cambridge itself!), you join the Alpine Club — then, there are the one hundred and one other clubs for amusing or interesting the 'average' student, plus the learned societies, (or 'societies of the learned'). Of course to join the really expensive clubs and exclusive, aristocratic ones, one requires blood and money; but no ordinary human ever has the least desire to 'gate-crash' such places.

There are people who claim that the Cambridge undergrad, is snobbish and unsociable; some are, but then, they do not interest you; there are plenty who are not, and they are much more interesting than the few who put on 'side.'

One thing any one must notice — there is a definite type of Cambridge humour (ruling out the 'dirty joke' variety). This savours of 'Punch', — Owen Seaman, ex-editor of 'Punch,' contributed to the 'Granta' (ed. note. The 'Granta' is the Cambridge humourous magazine, comparable in some ways to the Oxford 'Isis.') The 'Granta' humour is of a dispassionate, almost stand-offish character. It consists for the most part of polysyllabic exaggerations, gently uttered with a 'winning smile,' — with a repitition of certain much-abused adjectives (i.e. 'jolly,' 'topping') — it doesn't include the word 'cute,' for which we must thank heaven. Occasionally there is something really witty.

Proctor

ALL this stuff isn't much news to an Englishman; but it may revive or fan your ambitions to come to Cambridge. You would certainly get to like it, and the beer is good too!

The petty medieval restrictions shouldn't worry you — most people regard them with amusement — we have to look up the compendium of University Regulations and Statuates, before we decide to do anything; then we decide how it is best and most regularly done. It is not for the student to incur the proctorial wrath and chastisement — it may cost you 6-8 or even 13-4, or better still it may make you liable "to expulsion, suspension or rustication" (a good word that!) A fellow was sent down only the other week for raising a riot in the theatre —and another lad was gated for the rest of the term, not out after 8 p.m. Last night, being November 5th, the boys had a quite a gay time in the Market Square — it was filled with people and undergrads — the youthful persisted in letting off firecrackers, especially under policemen's feet' — there were one or two arrests. Then a big crowd chased the University Proctor and his 'bullers' around the town — he was ultimately rescued by several policemen.

You really should see the Proctor on Sunday marching down to the University Church, attended by his 'bullers,' in top hats and full regalia; one of the 'bullers' carries a large-size, leather-bound Bible, hanging from his hand by a brass (maybe gold; in fact, I think it is) chain and fastened with clasps. Anyone in full academic dress may stop the Proctor and ask him to read the day's lesson, in the public highway; but academic dress includes nickerbockers, long stockings and shoes with buckles. The 'snag' is that no one wears it, but someone once thought he did, and had to pay 13 s. 4 d.

Title

IF you feel literary-minded, you can always find plenty of magazines to accept your efforts — if they are any good — the 'Gownsman' and 'Granta' publish all sorts of humourous stuff — there are more serious publications, and each College runs a magazine too.

You could write a lot about Cambridge from the point of view of the title of this letter — but of course it would only be a three-sided impression! Beer! — One could dilate on the excellent quality of the College Ale served in Hall, and that the 'Varsity crews train on Dale's Beers, Beer, not spirits or wines, is definitely the drink here. The undergrad comes up and often drinks beer, just because it is the 'thing' to swill beer in Hall — and be a man — sometimes he likes it, sometimes, more often, he does not. The appreciative beer drinker here is a "rara avis" though not so rare here as at McGill. As I have said before, our table, (the Graduates table) is probably the smallest beer-drinking table in Hall, the Boat Club is the one for 'blinds' —which brings me to my second point.

Rowing is, naturally, the 'staple industry' of the University. You have to take a walk along the towing path to realize what a grip the rowing spirit has on Cambridge. Any of the six afternoons in the week, you will find probably more than a hundred boats on the river Cam — mostly 'eights', a few 'fours' and still fewer 'whiffs' or skiffs.

To belong to the College Boat Club is the best possible thing you can do at College — if you have the time to sweat six afternoons a week — it takes 'hell' out of you as you know!

Which brings me to bicycles, a bicycle is a "sina qua non." In Cambridge town; — at least, it is so regarded, though I haven't one myself. But the place is littered with cycles — outside Colleges, outside lecture theatres, outside libraries, outside the big shops and banks — indeed all over the narrow and torturous streets of this old burg, you'll tumble and trip over cycles and cyclists. You'll need one, if you are an undergrad to travel from lecture-room to lecture-room, from your supervisor to College, and from your lodgings to College and thence to the Boat Club or the Athletic ground. But bicycles, boats and beer will give you a good impression of Cambridge, even if it may be a rather three-sided impression, it is something by which one may remember Cambridge. Its serious and academic side everybody knows — books galore will tell you about it, even the dull University calendars in the McGill Library. But you have to be here to get the other impressions, so here's hoping to see you over here before I have to go back to old Montreal.

Vignettes

I MUST tell you about the latest gossip in Hall. There were ten men put in clink last night — most of them had been celebrating a boat-race victory, you see the police have a nasty habit of keeping undergrads there until 12.05 a.m. — when it is too late to get in before the proctorial clock of Great St. Mary's has struck twelve. Then, the victims have a good deal of explaining to do the following day — for it is regarded as a 'serious breach of discipline' to be out after twelve without late leave, besides the usual fine. In many ways we are fortunate at John's — we pay no fine until after midnight, some Colleges have a three penny fine between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m., and a four penny beteween 11 p.m. and midnight, and after that at least five shillings — often it is more expensive.

It is much harder to climb into some Colleges after hours — for instance, at King's it is not supposed to be sporting unless one manages to get in with a bicycle undetected after midnight. It is not so easy to get into John's — but it has been done. I have seen the road of entry for entering Christ's after hours — via a gas lamp, a wall, a roof and a drop — then you're there. One could multiply the interesting sidelights on College life here — you'll appreciate them when you come.

Correspondence

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:

My blood almost boiled in my veins when I read in Friday's Daily the attack made by "Psychology Students" upon the fair co-eds of our renowned university.

I could not read so many illogical, bigoted, and paradoxical statements about the fairer sex without giving vent to my lyrical emotions and arising as the champion of the most beautiful, the most pleasant, and the most intelligent of all co-eds in the world.

Indeed, to say that they are the only ones that dress well, and then accuse them of unoriginality is so self-evidently fallacious as not to require any rebuttal.

These pseudo-psychology students might be informed that the McGill co-eds are extraordinary psychologists by nature. They are all well versed in the teachings of Darwin and believe in the survival of the best fitted.

Trusting that my vascular system will not further be deranged,

I am yours truly,
N.O.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

Upon reading the speeches of two of the professors of McGill University, namely Messrs, Forsey and Gordon, in the local newspapers, as well as in the McGill Daily, I was inclined, in the case of one of these men, to "forgive these wild and wandering cries" as "the confusions of a wasted youth," until my attention was caught and riveted by Mr. Forsey's critical statements regarding the disarmament policy of Great Britain. Evidently, Professor Forsey doesn't let the right side of his face know what the left side is talking about. On the one hand he cries to Great Britain to disarm and on the other hand he appears to advocate everything Russian, apparently without excepting the largest standing army in the world as well as an air force much larger than Great Britain's. Evidently he has also forgotten England's efforts to effect world peace.

We are not amused.

A Deane Nesbitt.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:

Permit me to comment on a letter that was printed in your paper recently, the author of which signed his name as N.O. The letter, as I read it, reminded me of the feeble attempts at jest of a five-year-old child. It is really a regrettable fact that some of the students in this university can not accustom themselves to the idea that they are in attendance at an institution of learning where the minds of the students are presumably mature, and that these same minds revolt at the puerile attempts at public school humour that N.O. has served up to them.

Furthermore, I consider it my duty to tell you, Sir, that since you are the man in charge of the Daily, and that since it is supposedly the organ of a mature undergraduate body, I can not conceive how you have ever allowed a letter like that to be published.

As for N.O, I think that any student who is capable enough or fortunate enough to reach his first year in the Faculty of Medicine should think in

"GOOD NEWS SPREADS LIKE GOOD MOLASSES" said Mr. Picobac

"Good news doesn't travel as fast as bad news. It spreads like good molasses —slow and steady." Mr. Picobac was referring to the steadily growing popularity of Picobac tobacco among pipe smokers.

"And another thing . . . speaking of molasses", continued he. "When people get the hanker for Picobac, they stick to it. They don't try it once and forget it. There's something friendly about Picobac . . . something in the quality . . . something in the way they grow it and cure it down here in Essex and Kent —that makes a mild . . cool . . . sweet smoke."

Picobac is a pipe tobacco, on sale everywhere. Try it.

Good for making cigarettes, too.

Colours to wear to the Hockey games

Red Team Plays Victorias Tonight

Seniors In Second Tilt Of Twin Bill

Royals Meet League-Leading Canadiens in Opener

RESULTS MAY CAUSE CHANGE IN STANDING

Tonight's Hockey Match Is Not McGill Home Game — Next On 13th

TONIGHT'S double bill finds the Redmen scheduled to meet Vics in the second game which will commence at 9:30 p.m. In the curtain-raiser the pace-setting Canadiens meet the Royals in what should be an excellent contest as these two teams are considered to be the strongest contenders for the Senior Group title at present. The McGill-Vics clash will be no less an attraction as the records of these squads to date would indicate that they are of about equal strength. Columbus draw the bye for tonight.

In preparation for the tilt Bobby Bell ran the redmen through a fast practice session yesterday. Gordie Crutchfield and Ken Farmer were the only absentees and the rest of the team travelled at a torrid clip for almost sixty minutes without a let-up. Nels Crutchfield took part in the work-out and was able to show flashes of form though still favouring his bad knee.

Riddell to Play

Meiklejohn and Shaughnessy continue to show improvement and did some effective rushing and blocking in yesterday's session. Meiklejohn packs a powerful shot that is sure to prove useful in coming engagements. Gil Painter will be unable to continue on the red defence and his presence will be missed as he did some effective work in the first two games. Johnny Riddell will act in the role of relief defenceman tonight, having moved up from junior ranks for the occasion.

The forward line will be right up to the mark for the encounter and Vics net-guardian can expect a busy time at the hands of the McGill, Farquharson, Crutchfield trio of sharpshooters. Kenny Farmer and Tommy Robertson will do the relief work for the front rank and this pair can be depended on to give their opponents plenty of trouble.

Victorias Strong

The Carlinmen, with adequate reserve strength can be expected to jump into action from the drop of the hat. The Maroon-shirted squad is composed of a capable bunch of young players who surprised the experts by holding the highly rated Canadiens in check and as Canadiens trimmed McGill by a narrow margin the Bellmen will have their work cut out to ring up a win.

Should the redmen chalk up a win tonight and Royals do likewise the result would be a tie between these teams for first place. Should Canadiens win and the redmen also Canadiens would retain the lead and the red team would take undisputed possession of second position. A loss would leave McGill either tied for fourth place or in sole possession, depending on the outcome of the first match.

As this is not a home game regular prices will be in vogue for McGill students. General admission is forty cents while box seats sell for seventy-five cents.

The referees for the games will be Leo Heffernan and Dave Campbell.

would not be taken until three years after the graduation of the party in question.

Fees Outstanding

It was also decided at the meeting that the Society adopt a device of their own embodying the McGill Coat of Arms. This design will then be used in all correspondence, such as the McGill News, letter heads and programs in embossed form. The report on the membership of the Society brought to light the fact that 1830 out of the 3151 registered members have paid the annual fee. This latter figure includes all last year's members as well as those from the 1932 graduating class.

SPORTALKIE

All-Star Selection

TWO short months ago football squads from Queen's, McGill, Western and Toronto set out in quest of supremacy in the Intercollegiate circles. In three of these universities the rugbyists have put equipment into storage for the winter and Varsity alone carries on in search of higher honors. It only remains to pick the mythical All-Star Intercollegiate Squad. This we do with considerable fear and trembling knowing that whatever choice is made, there will still be some who will criticise as particular favorites are omitted from the list. Anyway, here goes.

Here They Are

Young, M., Flying Wing; Sinclair, T., Half Back; Patterson, W., Half Back; Davoud, Q., Half Back; Ward, W., Quarter; Halpenny, M., Snapback; Hamlin, Q., Inside Wing; Dewar, T., Inside Wing; M. Valeriote, W., Middle Wing; Laing, T., Middle Wing; Newton, M., Outside Wing; McLachlin, W., Outside Wing.

Young Unanimous Choice

THERE it is and despite what you critics may think it must be admitted that it is a strong team offensively and defensively. There can be no question of Don Young's selection. For five years he has been the outstanding flying wing not only in Intercollegiate Union but in the whole Dominion. He was the choice of a selection by fifteen Canadian Press sports writers for his position in the Eastern Canada All-Star squad, being the only Intercollegiate man on the list. Offensively and defensively there are none better.

Backfield Strong

IN choosing the backfield three main things were kept in mind—kicking, catching and forward passing. Sinclair gets the call for the kicking duties. Despite injuries that kept him out of some games, he was up with the scoring leaders of the league. Davoud, product of R.M.C., in his first year of Intercollegiate play made an enviable name for himself as a catching half and broken field runner. In almost every game he made consistently long gains in running back opponents' punts. Patterson showed himself to be one of the best passers in the league. His accurate tossing was responsible for most of the Mustangs' long gains throughout the season.

Halpenny For Snap

HALPENNY showed himself to be the pick of the snaps. Throughout the whole season he made few bad snaps and his work in the line was outstanding. The choice for quarter was not so easy but Ward gets the call for his heady work and steadying influence on the whole team. Hamlin of the Tricolor and Dewar of Varsity are the choices for inside wing positions. Both men are good both on defense and attack. Hamlin was the best gainer on plunges for the Presbyterians while Dewar stood out with his brilliant all-round work.

Newton Best Outside

MIDDLE WING choices are M. Valeriote of Western and Laing of Varsity. The former was perhaps the best line-man in the league. His blocking was about the best one could find and besides this he carried more than his share of the plunging for the Purple and White. Laing was a consistent player throughout the year. Few gains were made by opponents through his side of the line. Reg. Newton captures one of the outside berths by his all-round ability. Deadly tackler and sure-handed pass receiver, he was the pick of the Red line. McLachlin of Western receives the call for the one remaining berth on the squad. The veteran Westerner never had a better season, tackling surely and hard.

"Shag" For Coach

TO weld this group of stars into a fighting team we choose Frank Shaughnessy, veteran McGill mentor. Twenty years experience in Intercollegiate rugby speaks for itself. Always an exponent of open football, he has been instrumental in introducing more improvements to the Canadian game than any other man. His choice as coach of the All-Star Eastern Canada selection is a fitting tribute to his ability. With such a selection of stars to work with, it would be a mighty squad that he could produce.

Vics-McGill Tonight

THE Red hockey squad lines up against Victorias at the Forum tonight. This should be one of the best games of the year. The Vics have shown form that was not expected of them earlier in the season. The tie with Canadiens last week shows that they have to be reckoned with in the campaign. But the McGillmen are determined to chalk up their second win of the season. The front rank of McGill, Farquharson and Gordie Crutchfield is as good as any in the O.A.H.A. and they have shown an ability to come through in the pinches. Coach Bell seems to be desirous of making a forward out of Shaughnessy. With Meiklejohn and N. Crutchfield both sixty minute men on defence he can make good use of Shaughnessy's speed and power at left wing.

Boxing Exhibitions

THE Saturday exhibition bouts by the boxers should develop into an interesting weekly affair. Coach Light's desire to give his men all the competition possible before the Intercollegiate Assault is to be commended. To encourage the men to do their best in these exhibitions the genial coach has offered a bronze trophy to the man who makes the best showing. The battle for this honor will be an interesting one and we would advise all boxing fans to be at the Field House Saturday afternoon. An interesting card has been drawn up.

Junior Hockey

question is at present the subject of extensive periodical comment.

Debaters Well-Known

The McGill representatives are prominent in forensic circles around the campus. Harold Lande is at present vice-president of the Debating Union and has debated for McGill several times in the past. He was an assistant in the Economics department, being the winner of the Allan Oliver Gold Medal and Fellowship. Melbourne Doig was in the finals of the Talbot-Papineau Cup contest for public speaking last year. He is also well-known in debating circles, having been on the Intercollegiate Debating team.

J. E. Bigelow is a senior at his Alma Mater and is captain and manager of debating there. He is also president of the International Relations Club. R. E. McCuir, a Junior, is a student of International Relations and a major student in Economics.

Second Boxing Card To Be Run Off Next Saturday Afternoon

Coach Light Offers Trophy For Best Showing In Weekly Bouts

NEED HEAVYWEIGHTS

INTEREST continues unabated in the Boxing Club practices at the Field House. Bert Light has an attendance of about forty every time his club meets and hopes to find some good material for the intercollegiate bouts which will be held here next February. The men are rapidly rounding into condition under the expert direction of Coach Light who is using a stiff calisthenics course as the best means to this end.

Tam Fyshe, stellar performer of the senior football team made his appearance yesterday for the first time. After a good season on the gridiron the diminutive outside wing has turned to boxing, one of his favoured sports for further recreation. He should make his presence felt in the 126 pound division.

An added incentive to participation in the weekly tournaments which are held every Saturday at the Field House has been provided in the form of a bronze trophy which will be presented to the man making the best showing in these bouts during the year. This trophy is being presented by the genial coach who is doing much to further the mitt game at McGill. The first round of the weekly tourneys was run off last Saturday when several high class fights were carded.

At present there is a dearth of heavyweight scrappers in the redmen's ranks but it is hoped that Roger Wilson and George Maughan will be able to turn out and fill the gap in this class. Any others of this weight who have not yet made their appearance are invited to do so. The practices are held Tuesday and Thursdays from 5:00 to 6:00 at the Field House.

The second round of weekly bouts will be run off this Saturday with an excellent card being again presented. The officials will be William Carruthers, of Verdun, Tommy Mathews of the "Y" and James MacMillan of the L.A.A. The scrappers are drawn as follows:

116 pds.—Southwood vs. Stinson. ("Y")
118 pds.—Toll vs. J. Yancey.
126 pds.—Smith vs. Patton.
135 pds.—Kirkpatrick vs. Kirkpatrick.
135 pds.—McGregor vs. Rulter.
135 pds.—Nobbs vs. Smith.
145 pds.—Gilda vs. Jamieson.
145 pds.—Crutchlow vs. Hart.
145 pds.—Swift vs. Findlay.
155 pds.—Corbett vs. Johnson.
155 pds.—McIntyre vs. Black.
165 pds.—MacLennan vs. Greenshields. ("Y")

SKIRTS IN SPORTS

THE R. V. C. RIFLE CLUB will hold its first meeting in the near future in the Montreal High School rifle range. As soon as the rifles can be obtained from the neighboring C. O. T. C., and the instructor decides on suitable hours for meeting, the practices will start.

This club proved very popular last year and many of the girls who began as novices ended up as expert marksmen or rather women, with a collection of silver spoons and what not. Manager Connie Brown feels that there will be a choice of two or three practices a week, because the large number of co-eds who signed the list can not be accommodated as easily as they were last year. The date of the first shoot will be announced very shortly.

R. V. C. puckchasers will make their first appearance this Friday night at the Forum. It is urgently requested that anyone who knows the elements of putting on a pair of skates and is the least interested in hockey should make an effort to turn out. This year it is hoped that a team can be gotten together and some kind of inter-collegiate contest arranged. This should not be very difficult for there is a number of co-eds who played enthusiastically last year and developed some good style. Queen's have had a hockey team for a year or two and would doubtless welcome a little competition from McGill. Surely such a chance to uphold McGill's glory on the ice will not fail to stir the spirits of the gentler sex.

TOMORROW all bird-swatters will convene in R. V. C. Convocation Hall for the third badminton tea of the season. These teas are becoming more and more successful and it will soon be necessary to hold them once a week instead of every fortnight.

TODAY should have witnessed wild scenes of celebration in the halls of R. V. C., as the tennis tournament drew to a rather inglorious end. Winnie Chisholm emerged the victor from the finals owing to the default of her opponent. This tourney which began with so much enthusiasm, rather petered out towards the end, but after all we really have to blame it on the weather. Winnie was also victorious in the doubles, ably supported by Elma Perrigard. We suppose the managers are all busy breathing sighs of relief that it has finally reached a satisfactory end.

enabled to see pictures of educational value. In conclusion the speaker agreed that the cinema is a fine means as an educational force but that the average run of shows morally degrades children.

P. R. M. Farrell, who, with his partner upheld the negative and winning side, opened his part of the proceedings by denying that educational films are shown in colleges and convents. There the Micky Mouse type of film is popular. He stated that the act was brought into effect, not because the pictures then showing were not of educational value, but because of the loss of children's lives in the Laurier Palace Theatre disaster of some years ago. He agrees with the affirmative side that pictures may be morally detrimental to children, but does not see why, if that were the case, the age limit was set at sixteen. If pictures are bad for children of fifteen, so also, he argued, are they bad for those of sixteen.

Adventure Stories Educational

Adventure stories have a definite educational value and aid in the development of character inasmuch as in such pictures the hero invariably overcomes all difficulties which inspire children to likewise overcome obstacles and succeed in practical life. By denying even the parents the right to escort children to pictures of such undoubted educational value as "King of Kings," the act is not in the best interests of education.

The second speaker of the affirmative side was Albert Hawes. He outlined the detrimental effects of theatres on the child physically. By sapping the vitality of the child, he is unable to concentrate usefully on his work. Children invariably seek the front rows in theatres and as a consequence their whole nervous system is oftentimes deranged. This cannot conduce to study was the opinion of the speaker. The poor ventilation of the shows which children frequent has a detrimental effect on children's faculties and thus on their intellectual powers.

Act Is Inadequate

The last speaker of the evening was Kenneth Macintyre. He criticized his opponents for dealing with isolated cases and ignoring generalities. He refuted the idea which his opponents put forward that the Act was passed in view of the educational effects of theatres on children. That was its secondary object. He admitted that travelogues might be shown in educational halls but claimed that their poor presentation more than counteracted their educational values. To prove that the act is inadequate is enough; it is not necessary to show that theatres should be opened to children without restrictions.

He believed that theatres gave vividness and realism to stories which books and newspapers rendered vague. Classics are now available to all where previously they had been ignored. Drama is essential towards the rounding out of an education but as that force is lacking in Montreal, pictures are the only substitute. In conclusion the speaker pointed out that films are a force in education though they may have their drawbacks.

Decision Rendered

The decision was unanimously rendered in favor of the negative side by the judges, Mrs. Vaughan, Rev. Dr. Scott-Pearson, and the Rev. W. H. Towle. Last years winner of the Lachlan Gibb cup, Roland Bodger, was in the chair. A general discussion followed.

Visits MacDonald

Hon. Adelard Godbout, Minister of agriculture for Quebec, was shown around Macdonald College yesterday by Sir Arthur Currie. The annual report covering the faculty of agriculture, shows the interest the authorities take in the college, the latest renovation being a seed farm. The Ste. Marie Farm is being established for the production of elite stock seed. The cost of equipment and operation for 10 years will be borne by the Dominion Dept. of Agriculture.

Russians Experience Educational Revolt

is also an agency of instruction, in the form of educational activities.

Beginning as it has at scratch, the school system is unhampered by past prejudices and superstitions. Impelled by the new enthusiasm, the Russians pointed out the speaker, have not neglected the artistic and cultural aspect of life, especially in the form of the cinema, the theatre, music and literature. So great has been this movement that the speaker was led to conclude, "Russia within a decade or two will be leading the world in cultural expression."

Colorful Collegian Thing Of Past

Columbus, O. — The bright lights, the rah-rahing, the princely apartments and the lavish fraternity and sorority entertaining will disappear this year from the colorful life of the collegian, President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State University is convinced.

For, believe it or not, due to economic conditions the student body is coming to college this year to study.

President Rightmire, in an interview, declared that this year is an ideal one for the student who wants to study History and Economics rather than Co-eds and Guzzling.

"The experiences in these times of economic stress are going to make it easier for students to cut off excesses, to give less heed to competition among student groups in social entertainment and to live more nearly according to their individual desires and conditions," asserted the educator, who long has been an advocate of the "simple life" for students.

"We shall all make a closer approach to our ideal of individual life and independence."

Of course the year may not produce so many memories, but there is a feeling in educatioal circles that such a result would not be unfortunate.

Asked how much cheaper a year in college can be purchased now, Dr. Rightmire predicted that the average expense for a year will be $100 lower in 1932-33.

College campuses will be filled with students coming back to take advantage of this situation, he said.

"If it is at all possible, if they can locate the means, the young people of college mind and age should continue their studies this year, on a falling market of college living. Young men and women of the normal college age will be wise in making a desperate effort to go on to school this year."

discoveries which will be of immense practical value to the farmer.

Results Summarised

In conclusion, he outlined the views of a Russian scientist, who believes that an organism can absorb radiations from the surrounding environment and hold it within itself. He then briefly summed up the tangible results obtained so far in the biological application of X-rays.

Arthur Cohen, the President of the Society, then declared the meeting open for discussion, whereupon a number of pertinent points were raised. Following this, it was announced that a number of papers have been arranged for future meetings, which will take place every second Tuesday.

Shakespeare Makes Appearance In Person At "Lear"

Budapest. — William Shakespeare, greatest dramatist of all time, appeared in person on the stage of a small provincial town, not far away from civilization and was given a great ovation by the ignorant audience when his well-known historical play, "King Lear," was performed.

This was revealed when Camillo Felleghy, manager of a stage of strolling players with a personnel of four men, charged three young Hungarian intellectuals with maltreatment.

Felleghy miraculously succeeded in performing "King Lear" with his cast of four men and when the enthusiastic audience demanded to see the author of the play he appeared on the stage made up as Shakespeare.

This was too much for the intellectuals. They started throwing eggs and onions and beat up the ambitious manager after the performance.

The judge, after hearing the story, smilingly passed a fine of twenty pengoes each for the offenders and avengers of Shakespeare's honor.

It's th ewrong time to lose your head when you are up to your neck in trouble.

Varsity Celebrates Annual Gown Week

Toronto, Ont. — Next week, of all others has a special significance for the students of University College. For then commences the annual "Gown Week," an institution of several years' standing, originated by the Women's Undergraduate Association. For the benefit of those who are unfamiliar with its aims and aspirations, be it said that the chief purpose is to render our co-eds "gown-conscious."

"Gown Week was established primarily to stimulate a greater interest in, and desire for the wearing of the customary black gown during lectures," explained Margaret Hogarth, U. C 3T3, President of the W. U. A., of University College.

At the present time, only a very minute fraction of the girls are seen around the campus clad in this time-honored garb. There is about the gown an inveterate atmosphere of pedagogy, a quiet dignity in keer with the sobriety of ancient halls of learning. As one co-ed expressed it, "The picture of the college student in cap and gown has long been a familiar one in story and illustration, and if it were only to remain faithful to the traditions of the past, I think the custom should be continued, and to a greater extent than is being evidenced now."

The general sentiment, however, seems to be in the opinion of Fanny Goldheart, U. C. 3T6, Pass Arts, "As regards appearance. I would say the gown is ideal for college wear, but as far as comfort goes it is a decided inconvenience."

One blond in trailing robe, when accosted on the campus, informed The Varsity that to her, the gown "represented a symbol of the true spirit of college life, as apart from the much exploited rah-rah spirit of inter-school rugby, hockey, etc."

And then there is the freshette who maintained that "When one has arrived at University age, it is high time one attempted to show some individuality in dress!"

Miss Ferguson, Dean of Women, when interviewed stated, "I think the practice of wearing gowns is a highly desirable one."

paign, which is the only means of support which the Movement relies on, is used in a wide variety of ways in order to carry on its work. As is known, the S. C. M. is a fellowship of students based upon the conviction that in Jesus Christ is found the spreme realization of life, along with all those who wish to test the truth of this conviction.

This aim is carreid on through a program of meetings, study groups, conferences, and social functions all of which cost money. Salaries are paid to the permanent secretaries of the Association and a grant is made each year to the National Movement in Canada as a whole. These are financial obligations which must be met yearly. Supplies for the general administration of the Movement and also office expenses complete the expenditures, and it is stated these amounts are just met by the amount of the objective of this campaign.

Although the executive in charge realizes that there has already been a drain on already much-depleted purses of the students it also feels that some little sacrifice can be endured in order to make possible this work which is of value to the campus as a whole.

Collectors are located in all classes of the different faculties, but as it will be difficult to get in touch with everybody students are urged to hand in contributions voluntarily at Strathcona Hall without waiting to be canvassed, if at all possible.
